

ORGANISATIONAL CULTURE AND CHANGE

- Engaged and motivated staff/team members increase efficiency & innovation
- Together “Sustainable change” can be achieved

Course content:

All organisations have a “Culture” unfortunately this is one of the factors that is often the subject of constant change. To achieve efficiency and drive motivation, it is important that all members of the “Culture” understand the “Culture” and feel part of it? It is also vital that the members also feel comfortable within the culture and supported by the culture.

A “Culture” is often the result of:

- The sum of all the parts (eg the mix of employees, size of business)
- The environment in which the business operates
- Nature of business
- Diversity of the business
- Responsiveness of the business structure
- Support networks within the business structure
- The economic drivers within the business

By blending the concepts of traditional management, sustainable management, team dynamics and motivational drivers, an effective, supportive, motivated organisational culture can be created and enhanced. An effective culture cannot only deal with “Change” but should also be an internal driver for positive “Change”.
